

Training centre for the visually challenged

Staff Reporter

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM: The Amway Opportunity Foundation (AOF), in association with the National Association of the Blind (NAB), has started a vocational training centre in information technology here for the visually challenged.

District Collector Sanjay Kaul inaugurated the AOF-NAB Centre for Excellence at Plamoodu on Monday.

Soft skill modules

In addition to vocational training in IT, the centre will provide personality development and various soft skill modules for the visually challenged.

The foundation is a corporate social responsibility initiative of Amway India, while the association is a body of visually challenged people established in 1952.

William Pinckney, chairman of the foundation; Manoj Kurian, chief executive officer of the foundation; Josey Joseph, honorary general secretary of the association; and Baby Cherian, association's State working president; were present.
