

Synopsis

Amway's herbal and respiratory health-based products include Nutrilite Tulsi, Pursue disinfectant and Persona soap. The company added it has stepped up manufacturing capacity at contract partners to ensure adequate supply on these products.

NEWWDELHI: Direct selling company Amway said it expects business to return to at least 80-90% of pre-lockdown levels by July-end, with online sales contributing over three-fourths of the bounce back. The company said sales of its immunity supporting products have increased by almost three times since the outbreak of Covid-19.

“Pre-empting rise in demand of immunity and hygiene products, we are gearing up to ramp up production of these packs by four times in the coming months,” the company said in the statement on Wednesday. Amway's herbal and respiratory health-based products include Nutrilite Tulsi, Pursue disinfectant and Persona soap. The company added it has stepped up manufacturing capacity at contract partners to ensure adequate supply on these products.